Catechism on Holy Week

The last thing to be said about the reform of Palm Sunday for 1956 is that as far as the archives reveal, the Commission decided to remove the narrative of the Last Supper. This was not long (30 verses), so we can doubt if the motive was for saving time. But I can't find the reason for it. Tradition came to narrate the Passion in the synoptic gospels including the institution of the Eucharist, especially because the sacramental separation of the Body and Blood of Christ (the separate consecration too) was held as the herald of the Passion. The narration then of the institution of the Eucharist gave a vital relation of the Last Supper, the sacrifice of Good Friday, and the Eucharist. This passage was eliminated as well from Holy Tuesday and Holy Wednesday, so that it may not be found in the entire liturgical cycle. The only reason I can think of for this rather astounding change, was the great haste in which the Commission was making these changes.

The only change for Holy Monday that was made was to prohibit the prayer Contra Persecutores Ecclesiae (against the Church's persecutors), and to prohibit the prayer for the pope. Later on of course, all references to the Church's enemies were removed from the Novus Ordo Missae. The suppressed prayer referred to the reality of the Church's persecution by enemies within (via heresy) and without (via violence). Fr. Braga admitted that the Commission had an irenic attitude toward the world, which of course grew much stronger as time went on, such that by the time of Pope St. John XXIII the attitude was that we ought to be friends with the world, not enemies. The reducing of the pope's name from the liturgy began with this change, with the result of a decrease of intercession for the pope. The frequent intercessions for the pope were considered unnecessary.

Please pray for the repose of the souls of:

Sr. Bernadette of the Immaculate Conception, O.C.D., James Egle, Tom Coogan, Joan Ludwig, Michael Storociak, Evelyn Arrington, Rose Canzano, Maria Stupine, Robert Heldt, Margaret Dougherty, Bill Perry, Allen Egle, Ron Thaler, Nicolette Tiburcio, Sue Scofield, Perla Bechtold, Carmen Munoz, Jason White, Alice McMahon, Gordon Collinson, Steven Chris Valerio

The Carmelite Monastery is located at 6138 S. Gallup St. in Littleton, about 1 mile from OLMC.

From the Pastor:

- The intention for this week's holy hour is for the proper rebuilding of Notre Dame Cathedral.

- The hearing scheduled for last Tuesday regarding our petition to rezone was cancelled. Apparently in cases of active shooters, city government shuts down immediately. The murder at the Highlands Ranch school caused this. There is no word as of yet for the rescheduling.

- But the hearing is nothing in comparison to what happened at that school. God will administer full justice, and full mercy, and much reward for the cruelty and heroism shown there.

- From the Archdiocese: Today is Follow-Up Weekend for the 2019 Archbishop's Catholic Appeal. If you have not donated, please do so today. As an archdiocesan-wide effort, every household is asked to participate. Your gift – which will fund various ministries – is genuinely needed and will be greatly appreciated. Please visit www.archden.org/givetoday or call 303.867.0614 to make your gift today. On behalf of the thousands of individuals who will receive guidance, instruction, and hope this year because of your act of kindness, thank you.

- While we don't do the usual pledging with cell phones and golf pencils that most churches use, still, there are good reasons to give to the Archbishops Catholic Appeal. I have a friend who works for Catholic Charities, which vitally depends on funds from the ACA. She works with Gabriel Project that serves expectant women and families with young children. This is a good project. The pro-life health clinic, for instance, that operates directly behind Planned Parenthood and is right on the front lines offering

- I was scheduled to hear confessions for two hours at the Archdiocesan Women's conference Saturday two weeks ago, from 12-2 PM. But when I got out of the confessional, there were about 80 women waiting in line. So I heard them until 4:45 PM. The confessions were excellent. These women were serious about reforming their lives. And you could tell from the confessions that the conference speakers gave some good solid doctrine, and genuine help for the interior life. There is a plan in the works to do a conference for men as well. I hope it comes to fruition.

- My last day off was in March, so I'm going to take off a few next week, with a day of recollection on this coming Tuesday. The recollection will be on the priesthood, as my 34th anniversary is this Saturday.

- "Surely there is no figure who more aptly represents the priest of Jesus Christ than the donkey on which He rode into Jerusalem. A beast of burden, capable of nothing apart from his Lord. Not the brightest or the noblest or the fastest beast, but faithful and true. In the words of G.K. Chesterton about St. Francis of Assisi, a priest is to be a "servant among kings." And yet, what a holy pride the donkey must have taken, to be chosen – from all others – to carry the Lord into Jerusalem on that splendid day. The priest shares, in a certain sense, the acclaim showered on Jesus. At a first Mass homily in 1955, Fr. Joseph Ratzinger mentions a story of St. Francis "singing through the forests of Umbria." When he was "in the proximity of Gubbio, there was a rustling in the leaves and a pair of robbers jumped out at him; surprised by his strange appearance, they hailed him, 'Why, who are you?' Thereupon, he responded, 'I am the herald of a great king.'" - Author unknown.
