Repleti Sunt Omnes Spiritu Sancto

Devotion to the Sacred Heart of Jesus:
Fr. Jean Croiset (1656 - 1738)

CHAPTER I: What do we mean by devotion to the Sacred Heart of Jesus, and in what does it consist?

THE object of this devotion is the immense love of the Son of God, which induced Him to deliver Himself up to death for us and to give Himself entirely to us in the Blessed Sacrament of the Eucharist. The thought of all the ingratitude and all the outrages which He was to receive in this state of immolated Victim until the end of time did not prevent Him from working this prodigy; He preferred to expose Himself each day to the insults and opprobrium of men rather than be prevented from testifying to what excess He loved us.

This has excited the affections of many, for when they consider how little the world is moved by this excess of love, how little men love Jesus Christ in return, and how little pains they take to be loved by Him, His faithful friends have not been able to endure seeing Him treated with such contempt day after day; they have endeavored to show their just sorrow at such treatment, and to make reparation by their ardent love, profound respect, and by special acts of homage.

The object and the principal motive of this devotion is the immense love which Jesus Christ has for humanity, which, for the most part, has nothing but contempt or at least indifference for Him. The end which is proposed is, firstly, to recognize and honor the tender love which Jesus Christ has for us in the adorable Sacrament of the Blessed Eucharist, where, however, He is so little known and loved by men; secondly, to make reparation, by all possible means, for the indignities and outrages to which His love has exposed Him during the course of His mortal life, and to which this same love exposes Him every day in the Blessed Sacrament. This devotion consists, therefore, in ardently loving Jesus Christ, whom we have always with us in the adorable Sacrament of the Eucharist, and in showing this ardent love by frequent adoration, by acts of thanksgiving and every kind of homage, by our grief at seeing Him so little honored by men, and by special acts of reparation.

This devotion, properly understood, is nothing else than an exercise of love. Love is its object, love is its motive and principle, and it is love that ought to be its end. As is the case with even the most spiritual of devotions, we have need of such material and sensible objects which appeal to our imagination and memory, and so we use an image of Our Lord's heart, which signifies the immense love he bears towards us.

There is a great connection between the devotion to the Sacred Heart of Jesus and the devotion to the Blessed Sacrament. They complete and develop each other; they blend so perfectly that one cannot go without the other. If we have devotion to the Sacred Heart, we will wish to find It to adore It, to love It – and where shall we look for It, but in the Blessed Eucharist where It is found, eternally living? The devotion to the Divine Heart infallibly brings souls to the Blessed Eucharist; and faith in and devotion to the Blessed Eucharist necessarily lead souls to discover the mysteries of Infinite Love of which the Divine Heart is the organ and the symbol.
