Chapter XIII - How the Blessed will go up into Heaven after the Judgment.

WHEN the earth has opened and swallowed up the lost souls, then the Angels and the blessed will exult and rejoice. They will extol the justice of God, and confess that the reprobates fully deserved their fate. St. John says thus in his Apocalypse: "I saw an Angel come down from Heaven, having great power; and the earth was enlightened with his glory. And he cried out with a strong voice, saying: Rejoice, thou Heaven, and ye holy apostles and prophets, for God hath judged your judgment."

"And the voice of a multitude in Heaven cried, saying: Alleluia! Salvation, and glory, and power, to our God. For true and just are His judgments, who hath judged Babylon the harlot, and hath revenged the blood of His servants at her hands. Alleluia! And the four-and-twenty ancients fell down and adored God that sitteth upon the throne, saying, Amen! Alleluia!"

How excellent indeed will be the triumph of the Saints as they enter as guests to the marriage of the Lamb! How fervently they will thank God for having delivered them from eternal damnation, and numbered them amongst His elect!

Can one venture to describe the glory of the elect, as they ascend into heaven? The sweetest strains of music will fill the air. St. Michael will head the glorious procession, followed by all the choirs of Angels and the blessed: God-fearing married people, devout widows; priests who have led a holy life on earth, saintly bishops and prelates who have ruled the Church to the glory of God and benefit of the faithful; the confessors of the Church who suffered great persecution for the faith, holy martyrs who shed their blood for the name of Christ; virgins who led a life of highest perfection; in a word, all the holy servants of Christ, who have followed in the footsteps of their Redeemer.

Consider what will be the rapture of the saints when they soar aloft through the air, soul and body, as if they were pure spirits, ascending ever and ever higher, beyond the shining stars, approaching nearer and nearer to the heavenly Jerusalem, the city of God. And oh! what ecstatic joy will inebriate them when they enter through the golden gates and be hold the splendour and magnificence of the city of Heaven! When the Queen of Sheba saw the magnificence of Solomon's palace, she was struck dumb with astonishment. But a greater than Solomon is there, and the majesty and loveliness of the palace of the King of kings is infinitely greater than that of any earthly monarch.

Dost thou not desire, O pious Christian, to dwell with the redeemed and enjoy the unspeakable delights of the city of God, the heavenly Jerusalem? We all of us have within us a powerful impulse, an ardent longing for happiness and enjoyment. O, seek not after that empty satisfaction, that hollow joy after which thy soul thirsts in this valley of tears. Lift up thine eyes to the land that is above, let that be thy goal, and one day thou shalt ascend up on high with jubilant songs. God grant to thee and to me, reader, that by His grace, this happy lot may be our portion.
