On Synodal Sins (Jayd Henricks, Catholic World Report)

A friend recently sent me a document from the Vatican which at first I thought was a parody of the Synod on Synodality. It was too silly to be serious, so I thought. By now, however, I should know better. It was not a parody. The letterhead... is official, and the document is hosted on a Vatican URL. The document outlines a penitential celebration that will be part of the opening of the latest stage in the now exhausting exercise of the Synod on Synodality. The celebration, presided over by Pope Francis, “is intended to direct the work of the Synod towards the beginning of a new way of being Church.” A goal of the celebration is that there might be the experience of “feeling pain and even shame” for our sins and perhaps the sins of others... What exactly is “a new way of being Church”? Is it something other than what the Holy Spirit established 2,000 years ago? If so, what are we to do with the traditional way of “being Church”? ... And as for “feeling pain and even shame” for our sins, that seems to be something more appropriate for the sanctuary of a confessional, spiritual direction, or even counseling than for a liturgical celebration... The penitential celebration will name sins which are to be confessed, implying that these are the greatest sins of our day and keep us from “a new way of being Church.” ... Among those named:

- Sin of using doctrine as stones to be hurled
- Sin against synodality and participation of all

Who is using doctrine as stones to be hurled? (1) It seems they have people in mind. Is it the catechist who assigns The Catechism of the Catholic Church for reading? Is it the continent of bishops that rejected a Vatican document, which by popular reading sanctions sin? Is it a bishop who, for the good of souls under his authority, denies Communion to a public official who is creating grave scandal? Is it the parent who teaches his or her children the Ten Commandments? ... And then there is the “Sin against synodality/lack of listening, communion, and participation of all.” (2) ... We still are not clear what “synodality” is, so how can we repent of sinning against it? Maybe they mean the lack of synod delegates and synod leadership properly listening to the faithful when, for example, the Vatican’s communications office deletes a Vatican online poll where 88% respond in the negative to the question: “Do you believe that synodality as a path of conversion and reform can enhance the mission and participation of all the baptized?” That seems to be a failure of listening. I am not sure it needs to be confessed, but I leave that to the conscience of whoever deleted the poll.

1. Doctrine as Stones: But even if we or an angel from heaven should preach to you a gospel contrary to that which we preached to you, let him be accursed (Gal 1:8); He who does not believe is condemned already because he has not believed in the name of the only Son of God (Jn 6:18); I told you that you would die in your sins, for you will die in your sins unless you believe that I am he (Jn 8:24); Without faith it is impossible to please God (Heb 11:6)
2. Against Communion/Participation of All: You do not believe because you do not belong to my sheep (Jn 10:26); If anyone comes to you and does not bring this doctrine, do not receive him into the house or give him any greeting (2 Jn 10); He who believes and is baptized will be saved; but he who does not believe will be condemned.” (Mk 16:16)
